Welcome to the 122nd Annual Meeting

Our annual meeting has been a joy to me for more than 30 years, and I trust that you have found and/or will find your own joys in our shared exploration of Texas history at the Embassy Suites in San Marcos. As always, our 40 sessions offer rich opportunities to learn and exchange ideas, and the meeting itself offers plenty of opportunities to greet old friends, make new ones, and simply talk about the history that engages you most fully.

During the meeting, on Friday, March 9, Sarita Hixon will be taking over as president of the association. Sarita has already proven a valuable colleague in TSHA leadership, and we are thankful for her willingness to take on this role.

Here are a few highlights of the past year:

• In April we had our largest state History Day contest on record, with 1,170 students participating after excelling in 24 regional contests.
• We were fortunate to have Dr. Walter Buenger, a past TSHA president, join us as Chief Historian on July 1, with Dr. Randolph B. “Mike” Campbell retiring from the role. Mike’s deeply dedicated service was honored at a reception in Austin in September. Walter is no stranger to anyone involved in our organization and has already proven a stellar addition to our scholarly efforts and Austin operations.
• We hosted two events at the Driskill Hotel in Austin, the first an August gala featuring seven Apollo astronauts and moderated by Texas Monthly editor-in-chief Tim Taliaferro. The second was a November “Women Making Texas History” luncheon with U.S. Representative Eddie Bernice Johnson the featured speaker, interviewed by Winegarten Foundation president and TSHA member Nancy Baker Jones. Both events drew positive attention to our presence and our mission.
• On February 1st, we welcomed Dr. Frank de la Teja, another past TSHA president, as interim CEO. Like Walter Buenger, Frank has been active in the association for decades; we are delighted he agreed to bring his great energy and vision to this transitional position.
• Among other activities, in the last year our education department has served more than 1.4 million students through online resources, teacher materials, and face-to-face programs, while the online Handbook had nearly 10 million page views (and staff brought the number of images included to nearly 9,000).

While “hardworking staff” is a cliché, it is also a truism at TSHA. Please thank a staff member (or more than one) while you are here; their behind-the-scenes work is phenomenal.

As I close out a year as president, I would also like to thank the board and the other members of the Executive Committee, especially immediate past president Steve Cook, as well as the program committee that brought us this wonderful mix of sessions under the leadership of Andrew Torget. Thanks also to our local arrangements committee, chaired by Darlyne Lowman, to our generous sponsors, and to our exhibitors.

It has not been an easy year financially for us as a nonprofit with a name that indicates incorrectly we are funded by the state. Please keep this, your association, in mind for charitable contributions, estate giving, and/or raised membership levels. Also, please consider the new opportunity to give on a monthly basis; $10 or more a month (https://tshaonline.org/donate/) would be a welcome investment in sustaining our mission.

Now, go enjoy the feast of historical sleuthing, fresh perspectives, and shared interests that characterizes our time together!

Paula Mitchell Marks
TSHA President, 2017-2018
Dear TSHA Members and Friends,

Welcome to the 122nd annual meeting of the Texas State Historical Association. When Frank was President of the TSHA back in 2007-2008 San Marcos did not have the facilities to host a meeting such as ours. A decade later he is honored to serve the Association again, this time as CEO, in a year when San Marcos can welcome the annual meeting in a comfortable and elegant setting. Our venue says much about how this city and surrounding Hays County have blossomed into one of the fastest growing areas of the country. Texas State University now has a student population of approximately 38,000 and serves as a major anchor to the local economy. But, with the development of an Amazon regional distribution center and the presence of various manufacturing and service companies, San Marcos is no longer just a small college town/county seat. It is a diverse and dynamic community reflective of Texas's evolving social and economic landscape. It is a fitting locale for exploring the diverse aspects of our state's history reflected in this year's annual meeting program.

The past year has been highly productive for TSHA. As we arrive in San Marcos, our membership is as strong as we have ever seen it. The number of people interacting with TSHA on an annual basis has never been as high. Last year, we had more than 6 million visitors to TSHA's website, and our social media audiences have never been larger. TSHA has been making a conscious effort to be more active in communities across the state. A good example of this is our Texas Talks series. This series has been so popular that last year we began filming it at various locations in front of a live audience. This year's installments on Tom Lea and bootlegging have been huge hits. Our education programs continue to grow, and History Day continues to be the largest and most awarded program of its type in the country. Last year we added two new regional contests and Texas History Day had more student participation than ever before. TSHA Press continues to increase the offerings of the Association with two new publications this year. The 2018-2019 Texas Almanac and The Old Army in the Big Bend are currently for sale. Our Legacy of Texas ecommerce website continues to flourish and the Handbook of Texas has received well over 4 million visitors and has an image count of nearly 9,000 items. As you can see, the staff at TSHA has been quite busy and has done a spectacular job once again this year.

We would like to thank outgoing President Paula Mitchell Marks for her guidance over the past year as well as the entire Board of Directors for their continued leadership and advice. We are looking forward to working with incoming President Sarita Hixon and anticipate continued growth and success during her presidency.

With forty sessions and numerous special events, the 2018 Annual Meeting offers many opportunities to participate in learning about our past and preparing for our future. Please enjoy your time with the other lovers of Texas history and TSHA, and thank you for your support!

Sincerely,

Walter L. Buenger
