Welcome to the 126th Annual Meeting

On behalf of the Board of Directors of the Texas State Historical Association, I welcome new and past Association members to our 126th Annual Meeting. As we embark on this historic meeting of the state's oldest learned society, we express sincere gratitude to our TSHA staff, the Program Committee, and the Local Arrangements Committee for their excellent work in planning and preparing this meeting during the ongoing Covid-19 pandemic. Thanks and appreciation go to the program presenters who provide their outstanding research and scholarship and to all who volunteer their service on our important committees.

TSHA follows the inspiration laid out by our founders, sharing Texas history and stories of events and people from all walks of life with individuals and organizations across the state, nation, and globe. TSHA provides educational materials and scholarship that follow the tenets, methods and practices advocated by the professional historical community. The Handbook of Texas and its special editions, the Texas Almanac, the Southwestern Historical Quarterly, Texas History Day, and our many TSHA publications and education programs reflect this ongoing commitment to our rich and diverse history.

The TSHA has made significant improvements in our finances during the past year. Our Executive Committee, with the leadership and guidance provided by TSHA Board members and staff, has accomplished many objectives during the many challenges we faced during the pandemic these past two years. Many TSHA members and organizations contributed to improve our financial position. Thank you for your valuable support and commitment.

We sincerely appreciate Heather Wooten, Ph.D. for serving as Executive Director – the first woman to serve in this position in the organization's history. We appreciate her leadership, knowledge, organization, and communication skills. Mary Margaret McAllen, our immediate past President, Walter Buenger, Ph.D., our TSHA Chief Historian, First Vice President Lance Lolley and Second Vice President Nancy Baker Jones, Ph.D. played critical roles in leading the organization during this past year. I especially thank them and the Executive Committee and the Board of Directors for their support, counsel, and friendship.

My appreciation goes to everyone who made my presidency as pleasant as it could have been during these trying times and for demonstrating a spirit of cooperation and productivity. I welcome Lance Lolley as our incoming president this year. He brings valuable knowledge and skills from his experience as a CPA and business leader along with his years of association and support of the TSHA.

Thank you again for attending the 2022 TSHA Annual Meeting and being part of this outstanding historical organization. Enjoy the conference presentations, special events, receptions, tours and celebrate being together again.

TSHA President

Dear TSHA Members and Friends,

Welcome to the 126th annual meeting of the Texas State Historical Association to be held at the AT&T Hotel and Conference Center in Austin, February 23-26, 2022. This will be an in-person meeting, but we strongly encourage that you do your part to keep our community healthy and follow all the safety protocols of the University of Texas at Austin. These include:

- 1) If you have not been vaccinated and received a booster for Covid 19, please do so before our meeting.
- 2) If possible, please get tested for Covid within 72 hours of the start of the meeting, and only attend if the test is negative.
- 3) Please properly wear a recommended mask indoors, and try to maintain social distancing.

Please check the TSHA Annual Meeting website relative to changes in UT policies and recommendations.*

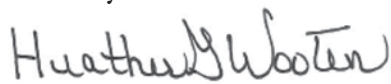

All of us at the TSHA are excited to be back meeting in-person and to have one of the best and most diverse programs in many years. This year we debut a special feature: The TSHA Fellows Dual Session. In recognition of our distinguished Fellows, we will pre-record and release in advance two particularly timely sessions and then follow them up with an in-person Q&A just before the Fellows Luncheon. Please see page 11 of the program for more details.

We also will offer our usual range of events and sessions in a traditional format. Of special note we will again have a graduate student mixer that gives graduate students a chance to meet professors from around the state. The President's Dinner and reception provides the opportunity to honor Patrick Cox who has served admirably as president during this lingering pandemic. As you will also see in the program, we will offer all the features of the annual meeting you have come to appreciate over the years if you are a veteran attendee or will come to appreciate if this is your first meeting.

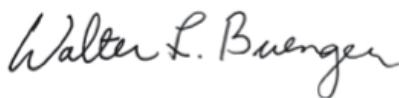

Here is some good news for us to close with. We remain on sound financial footing and have resolved many of our accounting and record keeping issues. The Handbook of Texas continues to add new entries and revise old ones at a good pace, and the Southwestern Historical Quarterly will feature a special issue in April reflecting on the past 125 years of publication and its future as a vital contributor to the ongoing dialogue about our past.

There is much to celebrate, and we hope you join us at that celebration in Austin.

Sincerely,

Heather Green Wooten, Ph.D.

Inside the Texas Revolution: The Enigmatic Memoir of Herman Ehrenberg

Edited by James E. Crisp, with the assistance of Louis E. Brister. Translated by Louis E. Brister, with the assistance of James C. Kearney.

978-1-62511-062-6, hardcover

978-1-62511-063-3, ebook

Inside the Texas Revolution: The Enigmatic Memoir of Herman Ehrenberg is a product of the translation skills of the late Louis E. Brister with the assistance of James C. Kearney, both noted specialists on Germans in Texas. The volume's editor, James E. Crisp, has spent much of the last 27 years solving many of the mysteries that still surrounded Ehrenberg's life. Ehrenberg was not a historian, but an ordinary citizen whose narrative of the Texas Revolution contains both spectacular eyewitness accounts and almost mythologized versions of major events that he did not witness himself. This volume points out where Ehrenberg is lying or embellishing, explains why he is doing so, and narrates the actual relevant facts as far as they can be determined. Ehrenberg's book is both a testament by a young Texan "everyman" who presents a laudatory paean to the Texan cause, and a German's explanation of Texas and its "fight for freedom" against Mexico to his fellow Germans—with a powerful subtext that patriotic Germans should aspire to a similar struggle and a similar outcome: a free, democratic republic.

"Inside the Texas Revolution: The Enigmatic Memoir of Herman Ehrenberg will be of profound and enduring interest to specialists in the field, and it will also likely attract a readership among the general audience of those interested in Texas history. It must also be said that the scholarship is so sound that the book will be just as useful to specialists fifty, seventy-five, or even one hundred years from now as it is today. It is, in that regard, timeless."

Austin College and former State Historian of Texas.

The tremendous growth of the Dallas-Fort Worth metroplex from the 19th through 21st centuries far outpaced the recorded history of this economically vital area. Texas is often associated with its rural ranching history, yet as the decades passed, the cultural and economic identities of the Lone Star State evolved to reflect the increasing importance and influence of the urban areas. No area in Texas illustrates this transformation better than DFW—a well-traveled location during the cattle trailing and early railroad eras that blossomed into a modern financial and cultural hotspot in the present day. We need a more complete documentation of the DFW metroplex, and the Texas State Historical Association (TSHA) seeks to correct this imbalance in the historical record. However, only about 1,000 current Handbook of Texas entries (approximately 3%) focus primarily on the DFW metroplex. TSHA seeks to add and revise 1,000 entries through this new special project, the Handbook of Dallas/Fort Worth.

Significant support from the Summerlee Foundation, the Rees-Jones Fund at the Dallas Foundation, Amon G. Carter Foundation, Summerfield G. Roberts Foundation, and the Tarrant County Historical Society has allowed the hiring of a dedicated TSHA assistant editor and part-time graduate research assistants at Texas Christian University and the University of Texas at Austin to assist with researching, writing, and fact-checking entries, which significantly increase the pace of the project.

The Handbook of Dallas-Fort Worth project is led by TSHA Chief Historian Dr. Walter L. Buenger and Project Director Dr. Michael V. Hazel, a Dallas scholar and author, with support from Handbook Managing Editor Dr. Brett J. Derbes and Handbook Assistant Editor Russell Stites.

Norman Washington Harllee,
by Marvin Dulaney

Norman Washington Harllee was an African American educator who served as a teacher, principal, and supervisor of public schools in Dallas for more than forty years. In January 1927 the city of Dallas honored N. W. Harllee for his forty-one years of service to Dallas's public schools and the Dallas community by renaming the Ninth Ward School where he had served as principal in his honor. Harllee became the first living person and the first African American in Dallas to have a school named for him.

Pancho Medrano
by Priscilla Escobedo

Francisco "Pancho" Medrano, labor and civil rights leader, son of Sabas Medrano and Nicolasa Ruiz Franco, was born in the Little Mexico neighborhood of Dallas, Texas, on August 2, 1920. Medrano took an active role, not only in his home state, but in significant civil rights events across the country, including Martin Luther King, Jr.'s marches in Selma and Birmingham, Alabama, and demonstrations by Cesar Chavez.

Dallas LGBT community, by Sam Childers

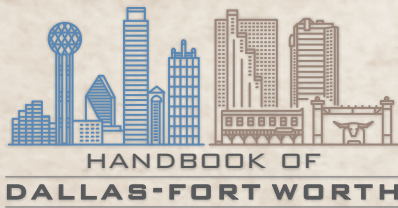

Early documentation of gay and lesbian people in Dallas is virtually nonexistent. There is little scholarly work on LGBT history in Dallas and few primary sources are known to exist. By 2021 Dallas had one of the largest LGBT communities in the country, and gay men and lesbians were woven into the fabric of civic life.

Fort Worth LGBT community, by Todd Camp

Effectively telling the story of LGBT (Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, and Transgender) life in Fort Worth and Tarrant County is a challenge for many reasons, the biggest obstacle being a slow transformation from unspoken secrecy to gradual acceptance and community visibility. In 2011 in a historic move celebrating thirty years of LGBT Pride, the annual parade for the first time proceeded down Main Street in downtown Fort Worth as a testament to how far the city's LGBT community had come.

Barefoot Sanders,
by Darwin Payne

Harold Barefoot Sanders, Jr., federal district judge, state legislator, and long-time Democratic official, son of H. B. Sanders, Sr., and Mary Elizabeth (Forrester) Sanders, was born on February 5, 1925, in Dallas, Texas. On November 22, 1963, Sanders and his wife were riding a few automobiles behind the president in his motorcade through downtown Dallas when the president was shot and killed and Texas governor John Connally was wounded. From 1989 to 1995 Sanders served as chief judge of the Northern District of Texas. In 1996 he took senior status and retired at the age of eighty-one in 2006.

Helen Corbitt,
by Judy Alter

Helen Lucy Corbitt, American chef, cookbook author, and the doyenne of food service at Neiman Marcus in Dallas, was born in Benson Mines, New York, to Henry James Corbitt and Eva (Marshall) Corbitt on January 25, 1906. Corbitt joined the staff of the University of Texas at Austin where she ran the University Tea Room and taught quantity cooking and restaurant management. Stanley Marcus of Dallas's famed Neiman Marcus specialty store began "courting" Corbitt in 1949 with a telegram offering her a thousand dollars a month, along with an undetermined bonus at year's end and some participation in the profits from the catering business. Helen Corbitt was at Neiman Marcus only fourteen years. While there, she gave lectures and conducted occasional cooking classes, notably one for select businessmen that met in her apartment.

Etta Hulme,
by Samantha Dodd

Etta Grace Parks Hulme was one of the first woman political cartoonists in the United States and one of the first women to join the Association of American Editorial Cartoonists (AAEC). Etta Hulme began to draw editorial cartoons in 1954 and submitted her first work to the Texas Observer. In search of cartooning work, Etta submitted samples of her work to the Fort Worth Star-Telegram and made "a nuisance" of herself until the Star-Telegram agreed to print some of her work on a freelance basis. By 1981 Hulme was still one of only three women editorial cartoonists in the nation. She served as the first woman president of the Association of American Editorial Cartoonists (AAEC) in 1987. Etta Hulme's final editorial cartoon appeared in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram in December 2008.
